DAILY — THE UNION

VOL XXII.—NO. 6617. PORTLAND, OREGON, THURSDAY, AUGUST 17, 1882. PRICE—TEN CENTS.

GENERAL NEWS.

Death of Senator Hill, of Georgia, at Atlanta.

SENATOR HOAR DEFENDS THE RIVER AND HARBOR BILL.

Confederate Reunion at Sedalia, Mo.—Yellow Fever Extending—Bank Robbery at Milwaukee, Wis., Etc.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

ATLANTA, Aug. 15.—Senator Hill was sleeping at midnight with no apprehension of immediate change. He cannot retain food and is unable to speak or write. Was unconscious part of the day and cannot live more than 48 hours, his physicians say.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 16.—Senator Benjamin H. Hill of this state died at his home in this city of cancer of the mouth at 6:15 this morning. For several hours before Senator Hill's death it was evident the end was near. Soon after daybreak his family were summoned to the bedside and there was present at his death the following persons: Mrs. Hill, B. H. Hill Jr. and wife, Dr. R. P. Ridley and wife, Senator Hill's daughter, Chas. D. Hill, his son, two nephews of the senator, and Dr. Wright the attending surgeon. A few hours before Senator Hill's death he made a sign for a hypodermic injection of morphine which was administered. He appeared to be awake and conscious several times, but could not speak. At 6:15 he was apparently awake when he closed his eyes gently and died without even a tremor. The funeral will be held Friday.

Senator Hoar's Reasons.

WORCESTER, Mass., Aug. 16.—Senator Hoar has addressed a letter to the people of Massachusetts giving his reasons for voting for the river and harbor bill. He states the bill passed honestly and fearlessly, and that appropriations of this sort are among the best made by congress, because expended under the superintendency of the board of engineers honestly. He says it is absurd to say these harbors and bays and great rivers are not to be accessible to districts, towns or factories in their vicinity, or that it is not proper to exercise national authority to do so. You might as well say while the Boston harbor is national it should not be so dredged that ships could go to its wharves because the wharves are local. You might as well in building the Boston & Albany railroad across the state refuse to have side tracks at towns and cities because they are local. There is one respect in which this river and harbor money is the best spent of all public appropriations, save only pensions. There are vast spaces in this country where the United States government has been known for a generation only in the character of a conqueror or tax gatherer. It is good that they should see this great and beneficent power in its character of benefactor; but it is also well that people in those sections of the country who have been educated for half a century to look at the national government with jealousy and dislike and who have felt its terrible power in war, in wasted fields and desolated homes, should learn to associate its image with beneficent works which bind them with the great system of national commerce, and on which their prosperity and wealth are hereafter to depend. Whether the policy of this bill is to be popular in Massachusetts this afternoon or this week, or this year, I do not know, but one thing I do know, it is in the line of all her traditions and is sooner or later to command her support.

Heavy Cattle Trade.

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—J. H. Sanders of this city, a member of the United States cattle commission, says for the month ending July 15, Chicago received nearly 80,000 head of Texas cattle, a greater number than ever before in the same length of time. They [illegible] slaughtered, and those not killed were kept apart from domestic cattle and are not likely to infect them with Texas cattle fever this year, although eastern breeders, who have not learned how to deal with the disease, are troubled with it. Mr. [illegible] thinks the cattle fever in the east is from cattle shipped north from southern states east of [illegible] cattle are affected with Texas fever. Mr. Sanders and other members of the commission will go to Quebec to-day to examine the quarantine system there with a view of adopting a similar one at Portland, Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore within two months. This will allow the importation of fine cattle from Europe.

A Sensational Life Ended.

[illegible], Aug. 16.—James Valentine Taylor, from whom Laura Joyce obtained a divorce four years ago, is dead, aged 36. On the death of his mother in [illegible] young Taylor fell heir to some $300,000. He at once began to spend money, and, as he frequented theaters, became infatuated with Laura Maskell Joyce, then the "Evangeline" of Rice's company. They were married after a short courtship and lived in elegance in Cambridge until their domestic infelicity became a cause celebre in the courts. Disclosures at the trial on both sides were exceedingly scandalous. Finally Laura gained her suit and an order for alimony. Soon after Taylor married a Miss Dellicker, with a seven-year-old son by his first wife, survives him.

Confederate Reunion.

SEDALIA, Mo., Aug. 16.—The ex-confederate reunion [illegible] yesterday. There was a parade in which about 3000 took part. The procession was made up of Mexican veterans, union veterans, mayor and members of the city council and city officers, [illegible], Sedalia fire department, citizens and visitors. At the park, Rev. Dr. B. T. Lacy, chaplain for Stonewall Jackson during the war, offered prayer. Chas. E. Selly, mayor of Sedalia, delivered a welcoming address, replied to by General John S. Marmaduke, president of the association. General Leroy Utland, of St. Louis, delivered the oration of the day.

An ex-Confederate Organization.

SEDALIA, Mo., Aug. 16.—The ex-Confederate Association of Missouri, under whose auspices the reunion is now being held here, to-day effected a permanent organization by the adoption of a constitution and by-laws and election of officers. Gen. Jno. S. Marmaduke was chosen president and Capt. A. A. Lesueur, secretary. The association, after the transaction of routine business, adjourned, to meet again next year.

[illegible] the Prices of Provisions.

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—After the first half hour on change this morning prices show considerable weakness, especially for provisions, which are being offered in heavy lots. Buyers are holding off and prices are somewhat a full cent lower, corn a little more than a cent off, oats ½ to ¾ lower, pork 12½ lower, reaching the lowest point for some weeks, and lard 20c lower. It is claimed by many operators that the bulls in provisions are depressing it in order to get a bottom figure. The tendency of the market lately has been pretty steadily downward.

Well Indicted.

READING, Pa., Aug. 16.—Twenty-two bills of indictment were found against A. M. Dunder, the defaulting county treasurer by the Berks county grand jury. The bill charges embezzlement, forgery, perjury and making false returns and entries, and also indicted him for conspiracy to defraud in connection with Matthias, ex-clerk of the quarter sessions.

Changed their Plans.

BUFFALO, Aug. 16.—Mooney, president of the national land league, telegraphed Parnell yesterday, that the central land league union of Philadelphia, in compliance with your request, passed a resolution discountenancing any scheme to send men or money to Arabi Pasha.

The Tariff Commission.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Aug. 16.—O. Hammerstein, editor of the Tobacco Journal, made a statement before the tariff commission in regard to the injurious influence the importation of Sumatra tobacco is exercising on the interest of producers of home tobacco.

Chicago Notes.

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—The Western Export Association are holding a harmonious session here to-day, with the purpose of restricting their production the coming season as they did under the old organization. There is no doubt they will succeed.

Bankers' Convention.

SARATOGA, Aug. 16.—The Bankers' Association annual session began to-day with a very large attendance. Wm. H. Foster, of Salem, Mass., 50 years cashier of a bank, was introduced, and then President Coe gave the opening address.

Changes Impending.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Important changes are impending in the administration of Castle Garden, including the resignation of four commissioners.

Noted Arrivals.

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 16.—Vanderbilt's Maud S., and L. T. Sanders' bay, have arrived at Charter Oak Park.

Notable Deaths.

[illegible], Me., Aug. 16.—Nathan Littlefield died last night, aged 78. He was a representative in congress two terms.

WHEELING, W. Va., Aug. 16.—James Crangle, a prominent citizen and banker, identified with Wheeling since 1841, died suddenly this morning of paralysis, aged 61.

The Yellow Fever.

BROWNSVILLE, Aug. 15.—Twenty-eight new cases of yellow fever; twenty-five Mexicans and three Americans to-day. Three Mexicans died. Two light cases are reported at Fort Brown. At Matamoras, seven new cases, five of which are light, and five deaths are reported. Major Butterfield of the Matamoras and Monterey railroad is down with fever. Weather cloudy but hot.

At New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 15.—Malarchal Englund, a native of Finland died of yellow fever this evening.

CRIMINAL NOTES.

A Brother's Murder.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 16.—The jury in the case of [illegible] R. Troy, charged with the murder of his brother some months ago, has returned a verdict of acquittal. The murder was the result of a drunken quarrel, both parties being much intoxicated at the time, at the bedside. On realizing what he had done, young Troy was completely prostrated with remorse and he has been constantly declining since. It is said he is in the last stages of consumption and cannot live but a short time.

A Bold Robbery.

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 16.—The bank robbers who took [illegible],000 from the bank Monday night have not yet been captured. Parties answering their description were seen near [illegible]. The job was executed with the utmost coolness, the robbers walking out [illegible] in plain sight of a large number of people with the booty in a satchel between them.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 16.—Excitement over the robbery is about ended. All scouting parties that have been scouring the country since the [illegible] have returned and the case put in the hands of detectives. All sorts of [illegible] are afloat, and in some quarters are [illegible] collusion. There is suspicion that a [illegible] customer who was here about the time of the robbery, but who disappeared suddenly afterwards was connected to it. The robbers have got such a start that there is little hope they ever will be caught.

THE STAR ROUTE TRIALS.

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.

Carpenter, counsel for defense in the star route case, continued his address to-day. He dwelt upon the importance of the course [illegible], characterizing it as a [illegible] the country, contending it was necessary for the public good and declaring that allegations in the [illegible] contained in the indictment were false from beginning to end. Concluding Carpenter said:

"When I remember as a matter of popular history all these charges against my clients were created in the newspapers of a great political party during a heated campaign two years before this indictment was found, when I remember they were at first [illegible] by the press on one side and explained or denied on the other; when I remember the attempt to connect the late president of the United States with the very transactions to which this indictment refers, when I remember the proud position my client occupied as a party leader, I can't but be reminded of the evanescent character of everything earthly. I cannot but be reminded that in the near future we must all leave, and prior to leaving there will come a moment when memory will unlock all clasps and will turn over page by page every act of your lives. You may have the consolation in that supreme hour to call to mind that unawed by popular clamor, unshaken by prejudice, defying the power of government, you discharged your duty and rendered a decision with the testimony in this case—a verdict of 'Not guilty!'"

Jeff Chandler, next counsel for defense, and especially Brady, addressed the jury. During the course of his remarks quite an extended discussion arose between Chandler and Merrick, as to whether the jury were judges of both law and facts.

The court said he would hear argument on the point and Chandler continuing, impressed upon the mind of the jury the necessity of a verdict of acquittal when the innocence of the great majority of defendants thrust itself upon their convictions. When, he said, the prosecuting attorney asks you in the dying throes of the government's case to convict two or three men, I want you to recollect there is not a conspiracy charged against two or three. A conspiracy must be proved against all or none.

Court inquired whether it had not been held in many cases, some alleged conspirators might be convicted and others acquitted.

Chandler—It has; and I will indicate the distinction between those cases and this.

Court—So long as there are two to be convicted the government may fail as to all others. If the jury are satisfied the two conspirators' conviction is proper, though the charge in the indictment was against them and many others. That is my impression, but I may be wrong about it. If the jury is of the opinion that whatever money was paid to officers of the government was paid by separate members of the defense in their separate characters, without regard to any conspiracy, there is absence of proof of conspiracy; but that is not the scheme of the prosecution. If it is the converse of that though, those parties were severally interested in the contract, yet they entered into a conspiracy in which they made common cause for the purpose of securing expedition.

Chandler—That is the scheme, exactly.

Court—Do I understand you to contend that if conspiracy be shown as to some of those contracts, and others should not be embraced in the terms of conspiracy there could be no conviction?

I do not contend that, but think that a conspiracy must be proved as laid. Before it all else falls to pieces.

Court—That is an important question, and not yet a clear question in my mind. According to your proposition the subject of this conspiracy is not out at all.

Chandler—Not the slightest approach to it.

Taking up the thread of the argument, Chandler asserted that there had not been a single order for expedition issued through the unbroken influence of defendants. Petitions had come in by hundreds, signed by men of the most honorable character, and upon these petitions expedition had been ordered. Chandler argued that the prosecution had not shown that the government had been defrauded, but on the contrary it had been benefited.

The court said he did not believe it was a justification for a public officer, guilty of bribery, to say that he had been bribed to performances that were right and proper.

After some further talk the court adjourned.

WASHINGTON CITY.

A Treasury Episode.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—At 4 o'clock that evening a handsome carriage and pair of horses stood before the Fifteenth street entrance to the treasury department. Within sat a woman elegantly attired, dignified and with a pleasant face. On the sidewalk was a bareheaded, gray bearded man in his shirt sleeves. Glancing from one foot to the other, waving one hand with a pen in it high in the air and shaking his clenched fist in the face of the woman through the carriage window, while he sang out in tones audible at the Riggs House across the way: "How dare you have the impertinence to come to the treasury with an attempt to blackmail me. You miserable creature. I have a mind to have you arrested." The male performer was Kenneth Raynor, of North Carolina, solicitor of the treasury. The woman was some person whose identity has not yet been established, but is supposed to be one of the number of the numerous class of lobbyists and female claim agents who beset the treasury.

Meany Released.

The state department has information from minister Lowell that Stephen J. Meany, the American lately arrested under the repression act, has been released. Meany is a New York newspaper man of some note locally, and some months since he was sent to Ireland as a special correspondent of the Star. He is an Irishman and noted more or less for exceedingly witty and laughable and occasionally incendiary talk. No doubt upon his arrival in Ireland he exercised all his American prerogative of freedom of speech and ventilated his opinions of England's course towards Ireland, and as soon as his actions and intentions were known he was released.

Washington Notes.

One hundred and fifty millions of 3½ bonds have been surrendered by national banks alone and there is every reason to believe the amount received from these banks will aggregate nearly $180,000,000.

STORMS.

Heavy Storms in Maine.

BANGOR, Aug. 16.—The most destructive tornado ever experienced in this vicinity, passed over Bangor to-night. The wind was terrific and rain fell in sheets, accompanied by incessant thunder and lightning. Destruction of property is very great; buildings were blown down, roofs taken off, chimneys demolished and signs and awnings carried away. A set of buildings in Vessir was destroyed by fire during the storm. A vast amount of damage was done to orchards. The loss will be between $50,000 and $100,000.

Dry Weather in Massachusetts.

BOSTON, Aug. 16.—The Herald says the extended drouth in Massachusetts, especially in the western part, has already damaged crops in some sections almost past recovery, while if copious rains do not come soon the loss to growing crops will be very extensive. Cattle had to be fed and the corn and oat crop, already injured past recovery, is cut up and fed to stock.

Killed by Lightning.

ATCHISON, Ks., Aug. 16.—A terrific thunder storm passed over the central branch of the country west of this city this morning. It extended from Corning to Irving. At Corning, John Baller and two daughters were instantly killed by lightning. The elder, aged 15 years, was standing in the doorway carrying a 2-year-old baby in her arms, when the bolt fell killing both.

STRIKES.

Resolved to Continue the Strike.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 16.—The coal miners district convention, unanimously resolved to continue the strike against reduction from 4 to 3½ cents per bushel on the price of mining.

No Settlement Reached.

CUMBERLAND, Md., Aug. 16.—A conference yesterday of miners and companies, lasted five hours. No settlement was reached and the company refused to make any concession.

CANADA.

Cheated the Gallows.

MONTREAL, Aug. 16.—Jacobson, a Swede, found guilty of murder and under sentence of death, died suddenly in jail to-day.

Railroad Award.

TORONTO, Aug. 16.—The arbitration in the railway case between the local government and Duncan McDonald, contractor, awarded the latter $138,000 damages for taking a railway contract from him, and McDonald refuses the award as inadequate.

NEW MEXICO.

Mexicans Killed.

ALBUQUERQUE, Aug. 16.—At an early hour this morning an unknown man rode up to the residence of Jose Rafael Apadoca, called him to the door and shot him through the head killing him instantly. Apadoca's brother then appeared at the door and he too was shot dead by the stranger who made his escape.

ACCIDENTS.

Unfortunate Tourists.

GENEVA, Aug. 16.—[illegible], an Englishman, left Zermatt Friday last with two guides to ascend Mont Blanc. All three were found dead Sunday, having fallen from a precipice.

Flew the Track.

[illegible], N. Y., Aug. 16.—A gravel train on the West Shore railroad, while making a flying switch, jumped the track, knocking a water tank over and killing two men and wounding two fatally.

FIRES.

Fire in a Printing Office.

BOSTON, Aug. 16.—Fire in the printing and publishing establishment of [illegible] & Co., caused a loss of [illegible].

PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

CALIFORNIA.

Board of Trade Report.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 16.—The semi-annual meeting of the San Francisco Board of Trade was held yesterday, J. S. Tyler in the chair. The secretary's report showed [illegible] receipts on account of [illegible] commission, etc., during the past half year were $9912, expenditures $5911, cash on hand [illegible]. Nine new members were admitted during the past six months and [illegible] resignations, leaving the total members [illegible]. The number of failures from July 1st to August 1st was [illegible], total liabilities [illegible]. Of sixty-nine cases settled forty-four were effected by compromise, [illegible] by assignments [illegible] and were a total loss. Failures in California [illegible], Oregon 5, Nevada 6, Alaska 1, Arizona 11, Montana 1, Utah 2, and Washington Territory 6. The attorney for the board made a report showing he had prosecuted 84 actions and 26 insolvency proceedings, the amount involved in attachment being [illegible]. President J. S. Tyler presented a long report. C. H. Dunster read a very interesting paper showing the advantages that would accrue to the country through reciprocity treaties with Mexico and Central America, and a resolution favoring such treaties was adopted and a committee of five appointed whose duty shall be to correspond with individuals or legislative and commercial bodies for discussion and advocacy of such measure, and a resolution was adopted appointing a committee to consider the feasibility of the construction of a line of steamers or propellers to be owned in San Francisco and employed in direct trade between this city and Liverpool and New York via the Straits of Magellan or Panama.

San Francisco Notes.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 16.—The O. R. & N. Co.'s steamer Mississippi was in Hunter's point drydock yesterday, and will complete cleaning and painting to-day. She will be used as a freight boat on the Portland route, and sails on Saturday next.

Enlargement and improvement at Spear street wharf has been completed, and hereafter Portland steamers will land and depart from it.

As soon as the City of Rio Janeiro, which is here to-day from Panama, is discharged she will go into Hunter's point drydock and clean preparatory to sailing for China and Japan on September 19th, in place of the City of Tokio, which craft is to receive an overhauling.

Frances Wilson, the girl who was shot by her lover, John Kelly, has improved somewhat in condition, and the police surgeon now has hopes of her recovery. She remains silent concerning the cause of the shooting, and now neither adheres to her declaration that it was accidental nor denies it. Detective Bohen, on a minute examination of the room, found the bed clothes pierced by a ball, and no denial is made of the fact that the unfortunate cyprian was frightened by Kelly drawing a revolver and hid her face under the clothes upon which he fired.

Already 88 deaths have been reported for the week, showing a decided increase upon the corresponding week of last year, when only 66 deaths were reported the whole week.

The ship Elsinore, from New York for Portland, sailed from Rio on July 22d, where the vessel put in for repairs.

French Officials En Route.

A large party of French officers and government officials have arrived from Tahiti, en route to France. The gentlemen are Lieutenants DeJonquieres, Votrin and Delleroudi, and Ensigns Thoret and Marliane, of the navy, M. Gabriel, controller, M. Bondean, collector of the port, and M. DePeyronny, treasurer at Tahiti, and Medical Director Mortreuil. The majority left for New York to-day but several are still here.

Mining Matters.

An assessment of twenty-five cents a share has been levied by Belcher mining company, delinquent September 21.

A Murderer Jailed.

CHICO, Aug. 16.—About 7 o'clock this evening Jas. Parker, the murderer of his father-in-law, S. Jones, was brought to town and lodged in jail. He was arrested at Moody's sheep camp in Big Meadows about 50 miles from Chico.

Miner Killed.

BODIE, Aug. 16.—William M. Davis, a miner, was instantly killed in the Red Cloud shaft Tuesday evening. He fainted and fell from the cage a distance of 350 feet. The body was terribly mangled.

WASHINGTON TERRITORY.

Seattle Notes.

SEATTLE, Aug. 16.—The steamer built here for the government was launched last evening and named the Steadfast. She will enter the coast survey service and will be in command of J. J. Gilbert.

The territorial democratic convention has been called to meet in Vancouver on the 11th of October, for the nomination of a candidate for delegate to congress and prosecuting attorneys for the several districts.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Victoria Notes.

VICTORIA, Aug. 16.—Dispatches from above state that two of Foster's freight wagons and twenty-six oxen were drawn over a bluff into Fraser river and lost, with all the goods in the wagons, valued at $5000. The bluff was 400 feet high.

At a public meeting convened to consider means for the reception of Princess Louise, a series of loyal resolutions were passed.

More Letters from Dorsey.

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—The Inter-Ocean's Washington special says: The Sunday Gazette, in its next issue, will publish several columns of additional correspondence, purporting to be between ex-Senator Dorsey and President Garfield, letters that passed between them from the date of Garfield's election and the time of his inauguration. The publication of these letters will create a sensation throughout the country, and a prominent western republican, who has seen and read certain of these letters, says they contain sentiments indicating the profoundest esteem and warmest affection for Dorsey, and that in one of them Garfield refers to his heavy expenses growing out of the campaign and entertainment of thousands of friends and office-seekers who visited him at Mentor, his pressing need of money, and asking "my dear Dorsey" for a loan of a few thousand dollars. Garfield's request for the loan was promptly responded to.

Dorsey's Independence.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—The Tribune has the following editorial: Suspicion grows apace that the impudent Dorsey letter, alleged to have been sent to Garfield previous to his inauguration, was never sent to him at all and was never written indeed until long after his death. It is argued with much show of plausibility that whatever else Dorsey may be, he is not a fool, and no one but a fool would send an insulting letter to a new president, whose good will he was anxious to secure. [illegible]

The Jig is up.

[illegible]

A Noticeable Omission.

[illegible]

No appropriation has been made for [illegible] the navigation of Salt creek, for the travel that way this fall is going to be immense.

"Buchupaiba." Quick, complete cure, all annoying Kidney and Urinary Diseases. $1.

POLITICAL PARAGRAPHS.

The Republican Campaign.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—A strong democratic paper here says republicans are making vigorous efforts to carry the next house, and the fund secured by the republican congressional committee this year is likely to exceed any other campaign fund. The [illegible] with which the request has been made and free and full discussion on both sides seems to have improved the situation for the committee. It is [illegible] to have been sent to Chalmers' and Lynch's districts in Mississippi, and efforts [illegible] will be made in favor three districts in Louisiana and also to capture a portion of the new membership from Texas. Republicans propose to make a vigorous attempt to carry Nevada this election and believe that with proper management and judicious use of campaign funds and literature, they will be able to do so.

Congressional Nominations.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 16.—A. D. Chandler has been nominated by the democrats as candidate for congress in the ninth district.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Aug. 16.—G. W. Hewitt was nominated for congress by the democrats of the sixth district yesterday.

STAUNTON, Va., Aug. 16.—Chas. O'Ferrall was nominated by the democrats of the seventh congressional district yesterday.

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 16.—The Republican convention at Hazlehurst nominated Jas. Hill for congress.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 16.—The democrats of the fourth district nominated John S. Evans for congress to-day.

TUSCOLA, Ills., Aug. 16.—The greenbackers of this congressional district nominated Dr. J. C. Horner to-day.

WINDSOR, Ills., Aug. 16.—The greenbackers of the 17th district have nominated B. W. F. Corley for congress. He declined, and another convention will be held.

PONTIAC, Aug. 16.—Greenbackers of the 9th congressional district nominated Barnard of Kankakee for congress.

ROODHOUSE, Ills., Aug. 16.—Greenbackers of the 12th congressional district met yesterday and adopted a platform, but adjourned without nominating on account of a telegram from Geo. Singleton that he would be an independent candidate of the republicans and greenbackers if they did not nominate.

GENEVA LAKE, Wis., Aug. 16.—Chas. J. Williams was renominated in the congressional convention of the first district to-day on the first ballot.

Iowa Democratic Convention.

MARSHALLTOWN, Ia., Aug. 16.—The democratic state convention assembled at 11 A. M. and a temporary organization was effected. For chairman, Judge W. C. James was elected. Committees were appointed and a recess taken.

MARSHALLTOWN, Aug. 16.—To-day H. F. Bonarden, of Johnson county, was nominated for clerk of the supreme court; L. A. Palmer, of Henry county, reporter, and Senator Charles E. Bronson, of Delaware county, for judge of the supreme court.

A telegram was received announcing the death of Senator Ben Hill, of Georgia, and a committee appointed to draft resolutions to forward to the bereaved family.

The platform adopted favors reform of civil service and denounces extortion of money from office-holders to corrupt and control elections; denounces the extravagance of the republic party and demands reduction of taxes; declares the existing protective tariff an outrageous scheme of plunder and violation of the democratic principle of right and justice; tenders the sympathy of the democratic party to the oppressed of all nations, and Ireland especially, under her present struggle. The following was unanimously adopted:

Whereas, Our chairman, Hon. Jno. P. Irish is about to leave the state for California,

Resolved, That the democracy of Iowa will always remember the valuable services of John P. Irish, and wherever he goes their best wishes will attend him.

Other resolutions referred to state matters.

A Congressman Condemned.

WEST CHESTER, Pa., Aug. 16.—Among the resolutions adopted by the republican county convention yesterday was one condemning Congressman Ward for his vote on the river and harbor bill.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

In Parliament.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—In the commons last evening, Philip Callan, liberal member from Louth, renewed his complaint regarding the putting aside at the instance of court of Catholic jurors on the panel during the sitting of the special commission at Dublin.

Harcourt, home secretary, accused Callan of abusing the forms of the house by introducing a subject twice in the same sitting. He said this was another instance of the way in which certain Irish members set themselves in hostility to the administration of justice.

Callan then exclaimed repeatedly, "It is false."

The chairman called upon Callan to withdraw the imputation, but he refused to do so, and repeated the objectionable statement. The chairman thereupon named Callan, and on motion of Gladstone he was suspended.

A Press Liable.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—Callan, member for Louth, has given private notice he will to-morrow call attention to the sentence of Grey. Telegrams have been sent to Irish members at present in Ireland, to return to London to participate in the debate.

Fast Time.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—The Guion line steamship Alaska, from New York, made the trip to Fastnet in 6 days and 21 hours.

Fire at Bolton.

BOLTON, Aug. 16.—Bailey & Son's cotton mills, containing 5000 spindles, are burned. Loss, £60,000.

A Treasonable Transaction.

PARIS, Aug. 15.—A meeting of Bonapartists yesterday was attended by four thousand persons. Among those present were De Cassagnac and Amigues. Resolutions were passed favoring placing of Prince Victor Napoleon upon the throne of France, and De Cassagnac made a speech in which he declared that the imperialists were ready for power and meant to take it. De Cassagnac stated that today, the 15th of August, had been specially chosen for holding a meeting. In a few years, said he, the 15th of August, the fete day of Napoleon, would be the fete day of the empire of France.

Disquietude in Spain.

MADRID, Aug. 16.—The spirit of the peasantry is becoming strongly socialistic in provinces noted since the revolution of 1868 for republican inclinations in their large towns. The Press says that the state of affairs in Andalusia is serious and requires a prompt remedy. All relief doled out by the government in Andalusia, Estremadura, Galicia, Arragon and Catalonia proved unavailing, and several acts of brigandage near Granada have occurred.

Suffering in Andalusia.

MADRID, Aug. 16.—Agricultural distress is assuming alarming proportions in Andalusia. In consequence of the poor harvest and want of labor frequent collisions occur between the peasantry and police.

The Jeannette Party at Moscow.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 16.—Engineer Melville and seamen Ninderman and Norus, survivors of the Jeannette will to-day arrive at Moscow, where they will meet with a grand reception.

Intends to Resign.

BERLIN, Aug. 16.—It is stated that Luther Bucherl intends to resign his position in the Moravian government in October.

THE WAR IN EGYPT.

England and Turkey Fail to Agree Upon a Convention.

HOPELESSNESS OF THE EGYPTIAN CAUSE.

General Wolsely Inspects the Situation at Alexandria—A Slight Skirmish with Bedouins—General War Notes.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

ALEXANDRIA, Aug. 15.—Lieutenants Smith Dorien, of the Invincible, and Hamilton, of Alexandria, on Monday night waded across Mai moudeh and Marcut lake, the water being only ankle deep. They advanced to a point within 500 yards of the enemy's line, and then retired to report upon the result of their enterprise. They reported that a spy, having important papers, was sent out from headquarters yesterday.

Lieutenant Dorien's Report.

ALEXANDRIA, Aug. 15.—Lieut. Dorien's account of his reconnoissance is as follows: Lieut. Hamilton and myself proceeding very cautiously about ten minutes with an escort arrived at 2:30 o'clock Tuesday morning within 300 yards of the enemy's cavalry camp. The night was very dark and we were unable to get details of their position. We therefore decided to get a position which would enable us to see the camp when daylight broke. We had not moved thirty yards when the enemy's pickets saw us and showed a bright light which was directly answered along the line. We ran about a mile and entered the lake about a hundred yards. The enemy pursued and spread themselves along the lake, completely cutting off our retreat, but their horses seemed afraid to face the water in the dark. The enemy's system of signaling with lights appeared excellent. Our every movement was flashed by the nearest man and answered along the line. I presume the enemy did not fire in order not to alarm any force we might have had near. We tied white handkerchiefs to a pole in expectation of being captured, but after making another attempt to escape at four o'clock in the morning, we went a hundred yards farther into the lake and in five feet of water. The enemy evidently losing sight of us returned. At 4:45 we rose and having made a long detour returned to the English camp.

Privation Feared.

ALEXANDRIA, Aug. 16.—The weather, contrary to precedent, is becoming cooler. The troopship Thalia has arrived here. Three English residents asked to serve as members of Dr. Schweinah's vigilance committee declined. The water works service stopped for the first time yesterday, but will be resupplied for a short time to-day. Hundreds of people arrive by steamers daily without visible means of subsistence. Provisions are dearer and apartments almost unobtainable at double rents. Tuesday being the last day of Beriam, the khedive held a reception at Ras-el-Tin palace. The khedive appeared to be in good spirits and referred to passing events in a light and happy manner. Gen. Adye, the admiral and many other British officers visited the khedive. The commissariat service works smoothly.

Gen. Wolsely's Proclamation.

ALEXANDRIA, Aug. 16.—Gen. Sir Garnet Wolsely, with authority of the khedive, has issued a proclamation to the people of Egypt representing the object of the British to be restoration to authority of the khedive. It says the peaceful inhabitants will be kindly treated, mosques will be respected and all supplies paid for. Gen. Wolsely adds that he will be glad to receive all chiefs who are disposed to assist in suppressing the rebellion.

Belief in the hopelessness of their struggle is spreading among Egyptians. The British commander at Meks has received overtures for the surrender of an entire infantry battalion if it can obtain favorable terms.

A Significant Action.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—A Constantinople correspondent says a small body of cavalry which embarked for service in Egypt landed at Suda bay instead of Alexandria, and the Albanian infantry battalion which were ordered to embark at Scutari received countermanding orders. This is significant when taken into conjunction with the fact that the Porte has not yet fixed the day for discussion of the military convention, and the Times says with reference to the foregoing: "We cannot profess to regret this sign that our troops may be spared co-operation of their inconvenient ally." It is said Ottoman delegates have demanded the conference to be kept open.

Rejected Conventions.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 16.—The draft of the military convention proposed by the porte to England was as follows: The Turkish army undertakes pacification of Egypt without foreign assistance, the British to remain in their present position and not to participate in operations. The Turks shall be allowed to use Alexandria as a base of operations, and Turks and British both to withdraw after the pacification of the country. Dufferin rejected this draft and submitted another with stipulations that Turkey should not undertake operations without previous consent of the British commander; that British officers should be attached to Turkish headquarters, and that the question of evacuation should be the subject of a special convention. It is believed there is no probability of the porte accepting the conditions.

Alexandria Notes.

ALEXANDRIA, Aug. 15.—The Duke of Connaught visited the khedive to-day.

The life guards are authorized as guards for Ramleh, but will be delayed until troops on board the transport Calabria are landed.

Another heavy gun was placed in position to-day on the water works hill.

Movements of Troops.

MALTA, Aug. 16.—The transports Arab, Storm, Stock and British Prince have passed eastward. The Spanish corvette Concordia and Dutch gunboat Bonaire have sailed for Port Said.

GIBRALTAR, Aug. 16.—The transports Ascalan and City of Paris passed eastward to-day.

MALTA, Aug. 16.—The transport France, with a battalion of the Highland light infantry, has arrived.

Excellent Arrangements.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—Hospital arrangements are so complete that if one-fourth of the British troops in Egypt should be invalided, there would be ample medical accommodations and army supplies to take care of them. They have 200 Abyssinia pumps, 5000 horse shoes, 5000 entrenching spades and 144 miles of galvanized wire. A large number of mules were purchased in Spain for service in Egypt.

Germany Pleased at English Action.

BERLIN, Aug. 16.—It is reported that Count Von Munster, German ambassador to England, now at Babelsburg, had a long interview to-day at that place with the Emperor William, principally about Egyptian affairs. Von Munster expressed the opinion that England could not have acted otherwise than she has. Emperor William spoke warmly on the subject and was pleased with the count's interview.

A Sketch of Arabi's Position Made.

Colonel Girards, who rode out this morning on a reconnoissance, succeeded in making a sketch of the enemy's position. The transport Humber has arrived. Major Gordon, chief of police, has handed over his office to the native authorities, and the European residents consider this proceeding an unwise one.

A Slight Skirmish.

ALEXANDRIA, Aug. 16.—An encounter between the British mounted patrol and a party of 500 Bedouins occurred this morning near Ramleh. Five of the latter were killed.

Gen. Wolsely's Inspection.

ALEXANDRIA, Aug. 16.—Gen. Wolsely held a conference to-day with Admiral Seymour and all the generals. He subsequently visited the khedive. This afternoon the general will inspect the Ramleh position.

A Correspondent Warned.

ALEXANDRIA, Aug. 16.—The French consul has undertaken to guarantee the character of the correspondent of the Paris newspaper Lanterne, arrested on the outposts. He will be released with a severe warning to be careful as to his future conduct.

Insurance Rates Lowered.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—Apprehensions regarding the safety of Suez canal having been removed, the business of insurance of ships against war risks has ceased.

Not Recruiting.

ROME, Aug. 16.—Menotti Garibaldi denies that he is recruiting for the Egyptians. He says that the difficulties of such work would prevent its accomplishment.

The Sultan's Delay.

BERLIN, Aug. 16.—It is believed the sultan wishes to await the result of a conference with Arabi Pasha before he gives consent to a military convention with England.

EXCITEMENT AT DUBLIN.

Opening of the Exhibition—The Sentence of Ex-Mayor Grey Creates Much Feeling.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

The Dublin Exhibition.

DUBLIN, Aug. 16.—The most impressive feature of yesterday's procession was a long line of Catholic religious fraternities. The land league was not directly represented, but fourteen Irish members of parliament were present including Parnell, Sexton, O'Connor, Dillon, Redmond and Biggar. Davitt and A. M. Sullivan were also present. Only two Irish Catholic archbishops attended, Durgan of Down and Conner Duggan of Clonfert. Some half-dozen episcopal bishops assisted in the ceremonies. Parnell, Dillon and Davitt were much cheered along the whole route. Over the doors of the late land league offices, on a large banner, was inscribed:

"Cowards' hearts are ebbing;
Fetters cast by slaves renewing."

In the evening the statue of O'Connell was made brilliant with an electric light and other illuminations in the neighborhood.

Prominent features of yesterday's procession were the staffs of a large number of banners, designed as pike-heads and gilded. Over the door of the land league offices was the motto "It will rise again." In front of a house was a red banner with a white crescent and three stars bearing the word "Arabi." Some small chains, attached to sticks, were carried in the procession. O'Connell's triumphal car, in which he was conveyed from Richmond to Bridewell in 1846, refurnished and regilded, was a conspicuous object in the procession. At the exhibition ceremony the British national anthem was not sung. The musical selections comprised a first chorus, followed by Mendelssohn's "Creation" and Handel's "Hallelujah." Fourteen hundred carmen, mounted upon the horses they ordinarily drive, marched four deep and presented a very soldierly appearance.

A Prominent Prisoner.

DUBLIN, Aug. 16.—E. Dwyer Grey, member of parliament and proprietor of Freeman's Journal was to-day sentenced to three months' imprisonment and £500 fine for contempt of court in publishing the letter of O'Brien, editor of United Ireland, accusing the jury which convicted Francis Harris of the murder of John Dolcughty of being drunk on the night previous to the day the verdict was given, and an article commenting thereon. O'Brien and Davitt were put out of court. Grey after being sentenced was handed over to the coroner. The latter evinced some reluctance to take charge of him but the judge called upon him to do his duty. The coroner, whose intervention was necessary because Grey is high sheriff of the city of Dublin, then conveyed the prisoner to Richmond prison. Grey, at expiration of his term, must find sureties for himself for £500, and two other of £250 each. The decision of the court caused a great sensation. Grey was lord mayor of Dublin for 1880 and was nominated a second time for 1881, but declined the nomination.

Indignation at Dublin.

DUBLIN, Aug. 16.—Lord Mayor Dawson, has arranged to call a special meeting of the corporation Monday, with a view of considering measures to secure the release of Grey. Crowds are assembling around the statue of O'Connell, and speeches expressing indignation at the sentence being made.

Proceedings at Dublin.

DUBLIN, Aug. 16.—The city hall was densely crowded to-day on occasion of the presentation of the freedom of the city to Parnell and Dillon. Nearly every mayor in Ireland except the mayor of Belfast was present. Story, radical member of parliament for Sunderland, and all home rule members of parliament were also present. Conservative members of the Dublin municipality were absent when the roll of the corporation was called. At the mention of Gray's name the whole audience rose and cheered enthusiastically for several minutes. The lord mayor declared that Grey's sentence was equivalent to six months imprisonment. He advised people to be most careful and guarded in their language, as they were in the midst of a great crisis. Parnell in returning thanks to the corporation for the freedom of the city said in view of recent events it was clear that liberty of speech no longer existed in Ireland, and his associates however would take care to bring the subject before the commons at the first opportunity. Meanwhile the Irish party would peaceably continue to educate the hope to govern themselves and would advise them to accept whatever reform might be offered them while pushing on towards legislative independence. He advised higher classes while they has time to join in endeavoring to bring about a better state of affairs. The people could no longer tolerate their present degradation. Dillon followed Parnell. He quoted statistics showing that Ireland, especially Dublin had been economically injured by the union.

Gray's Sentence.

DUBLIN, Aug. 16.—The judge refused to adjourn case to allow Gray to have counsel. The following proclamation signed by Mayor Dawson and Parnell, Dillon and Davitt has been issued:

DUBLIN, Aug. 16.—Citizens of Dublin: Without offering any comment on the sentence passed upon Hon. E. Dwyer Gray, we deem it our duty to invoke the people to maintain calmness and a dignified demeanor. We are expressing the wishes of Mr. Gray in counseling our fellow citizens to abstain from any gathering in the streets that might lead to a breach of the peace. We require only calmness and temperance in the present emergency. Hundreds of thousands of visitors kept peace in Dublin yesterday; let the citizens show equal prudence and self-control on this occasion.

Biggar, Shiel, T. P. O'Connor, J. J. Kelly and Sexton, home rule members of parliament, attending the celebrations, started for London to support the motion of Callan inquiring into the sentence of Gray, which comes up for debate in commons to-morrow.

COLUMBIA RIVER CONFERENCE.

Third Day.

BAKER CITY, Aug. 12.

Conference met at the appointed hour, the bishop presiding. Minutes of yesterday were read and approved.

J. W. Maxwell reported collections. On motion of the presiding elder he was continued on trial; also Robert A. Dill, J. W. Cullen, James H. Shephard, Samuel E. Crow, and John R. Manning.

J. B. Hill of the Book Concern at San Francisco, addressed the conference in reference to the publishing interests of the church.

Judge Buck of Lewiston, was introduced to the conference and read the report of the committee appointed by the last session of the conference to take into consideration the propriety of establishing a school somewhere in the conference territory north of Snake river. The report was referred to committee on education.

The question being asked, who are admitted into full connection? Thomas A. Towner and William Conrad were called forward and addressed by the bishop.

Thomas A. Towner, Wm. Conrad and Jacob Mills were then admitted to deacon's orders.

In answer to the question, who are received on credentials from other churches? the name of W. E. Parsons, a located elder of the M. E. C. S., was presented with his credentials, and the same were recognized.

On motion he was admitted to traveling connection with the conference.

Adjourned until Monday at 8 A. M.

The Truth about that Shell.

Philadelphia Record.

The story of the daring English officer who extinguished a shell which had fallen on deck by putting it in a bucket of water, has some minor inaccuracies. In the first place no fuse could be extinguished by water; secondly, no shell would be likely to stop long enough to be picked up; finally, the Egyptians throw solid shot, but no shell at all. The facts in the case are that an English shell lodged in the tassel of the khedive's cap, and he prevented its explosion by calmly spitting into the fuse hole. Tewfik tells the tale himself, but it is fewfiktitious even for the marines.

Gen. Stoneman opened his speech at San Rafael thus: "It is a well known fact in history that great generals are poor talkers, and I am one of them." Well, well; now we know what modesty is.

In his new "Etymological Dictionary," Mr. Skeat says that "not worth a curse" is a corruption of "not worth a cress."

THE PERNICIOUS CORNER

[illegible] the great market [illegible] every oil grain center in the [illegible]. That they have seriously affected our export business there is no [illegible] doubt. The reports of our consular agents show that there is great dissatisfaction manifested in foreign markets with our fictitious prices, which render the grain supply uncertain and the [illegible] calculations. The corner men claim that they are benefactors to the farmers and producers, inasmuch as they advance prices. But if by speculative and unnatural efforts they temporarily advance prices, the advantage to the farmer is but fleeting. [illegible] by their continual unsettling of the market [illegible] beyond any exportable figures, thus [illegible] foreign dealers to seek supplies elsewhere, they work an injury to the farmer that is permanent, and the injury to the business of the country is also permanent. Is it too strong to say of such men — men who make their fortunes by running corners — that they are enemies to their country?

When a few great capitalists such as Armour, Keene, Mitchell and others join for the purchase of any of the cereals it [illegible] that money enough is ready to purchase and hold all of it that may be produced. After all that is in sight is taken in, they proceed to contract with the balance of the public for all they can induce them to contract for of this same grain which they well know it is impossible for any of the contractors to secure. How much better this is than a huge confidence game it is difficult for the ordinary observer to see. They can make the price just what they choose. They have the grain in store at a marketable price, and all they have to do is to absorb the comparatively small amount coming in at any price they see fit. They can well afford to lose thirty, forty, or even fifty cents per bushel on a few hundred thousand bushels if they are making similarly on several millions.

In Chicago, particularly, the "corner" has come to be a great evil. The matter has become serious and there is a strong feeling against them in the board of trade, and an effort will be made by the better class of business men to put them down. The sympathies of the general public will be with those desiring to enforce the correct rules of business. The market is becoming so uncertain that investors are ceasing to look to it for legitimate business operations, and a few years such as that of the past twelve months will establish the character of leading members of the board of trade as great gamblers, who play for high stakes with stocked cards. There will be less excitement and hot blood, but a large increase of actual business, if there is less that partakes of the character of gambling allowed and a square deal enforced in all cases. We shall do well to avoid the vices of the great markets and to stick to correct methods of buying and selling. Z. W. S.

STANDARD TIME FOR THE WORLD

Towards the latter part of this month a conference of the association for the reform and codification of the law of nations will be held at Liverpool, when it is expected that something will be done in regard to providing a uniform system of reckoning time. At an informal meeting of the American members of the association held at Columbia college (New York) recently, a committee was appointed to embody their views in a report which could be submitted to the conference. This committee has made a report, which states that admitting the standard as usually employed is an accurate artificial timekeeper, it is liable to error of rate, as the standard must be regulated by reference to the national standard. Within the territory of the United States and the Dominion of Canada, the report calls attention to the fact that there are at present probably in use not less than one hundred different standards, and adds that "this state of things is growing to be intolerable; public opinion is beginning to demand the adoption of some effectual means for abating the evil. Legislation on the subject is beginning to be evoked, and it cannot fail soon to be generally resorted to. What is wanted is practical uniformity of time reckoning throughout the continent." A scheme originally proposed in 1878 by Prof. Abe, of Washington, is suggested — that is, to employ five standard meridians for the western continent with intermediate intervals of exactly one hour each of time, or fifteen degrees each of longitude, a system capable of being extended to the whole world by the adoption of twenty-four equi-distant meridians. The prime advantage of this scheme would be a universal time system dependent on a single meridian for all the world. Thus the times shown by all the clocks and watches throughout the world would be identical as to the minute and second, and would differ only as to the hour, which would always be that of the nearest standard. Another proposition, and a more important one, is to abandon the division of the day into two equal portions of twelve hours each and to count the hours continuously from one to twenty-four. This is not a new idea. It is a usage once prevalent in Italy. These views are understood to be in accord with those entertained by the British members of the association. It is, therefore, not at all improbable that some definite action may be taken upon the subject at the forthcoming conference.

BORROWING BACK

Pretty much all we have of permanence and value in our institutions have been borrowed from England. That country is not more the mother of our language than of our customs and jurisprudence. We have indeed developed some things among ourselves which the English are now said to be borrowing in their turn, but if their journals give a correct inventory of the political methods the mother country is taking from us the aggregate value of the same with a possible exception or two cannot be very great. A writer in St James Gazette says that one of these methods recently imported from the United States is the caucus, and another, as all readers of the news reports know, is the parliamentary usage known with us as the "previous question." Adoption of the caucus this writer laments, because it becomes an expedient for controlling the more intelligent, the better informed and on the whole more honest by the more ignorant, the more stupid factions and on the whole the less upright. This is very well stated. Not so however the objection to the previous question, the adoption of which as one of the rules of parliament he regards in the light of a great calamity. Without it when would the flow of inane drivel in a body like our house of representatives cease? With us every representative in congress is an orator or deems himself one, and in the English commons the number of members of the same sort is greatly increasing. It is difficult to see a [illegible] objection to a rule whose effect is to check the increasing flood of words that only darken knowledge. They who are really able to speak and worthy to be heard will be heard; of the rest the less heard the better.

COMPARATIVE RATES

Our farmers on the right side of the continent for wheat growing are on the wrong side of freights. It takes all the fertility of their soil and the excellence of their wheat to meet the disadvantages of their position. If we pay 70 shillings a ton from Portland to the United Kingdom the charge is 45 cents a bushel. The present rate is somewhat lower, but for years past it has averaged much higher. There is [illegible]

[illegible] OPPORTUNITY

The canneries on the Columbia river now idle will probably remain so till the [illegible] of next year's salmon [illegible] April. One or more of them might be [illegible] employed in putting up fruits and [illegible]. All the appliances are ready and [illegible]. Steamboats would carry products fresh from the garden or orchard to the cannery. [illegible] Vegetables are always fine in Oregon and they may be secured in any quantity which might be desired and at very low prices. The fruit crop promises this year to be unusually [illegible]. A year ago a young man connected with the Kinney cannery at Astoria [illegible] put up pears on his own account after the close of the fishing season and in spite of the difficulties attending a new venture on a limited scale, was well paid for his efforts. His venture demonstrated that it could be made profitable to employ the salmon canneries in fruit preservation on a large scale. The market for canned fruits and vegetables is large. The region north and east of Walla Walla consumes great quantities, while in every city and town of the northwest they find ready sale. This is one of the few lines of production in which Oregon can compete successfully with California, and with the special facilities at hand we should drive imported fruit and vegetables out of the market.

Whenever it has been proposed to employ the salmon canneries for fruit packing the failure of an enterprise very similar has been a hindering argument. The Kinneys several years ago attempted to can beef in large quantities for export, but the business was found to be unprofitable and soon given up. Even in the markets of this coast beef packers of Chicago were able to undersell the Oregon competitors and so took all the business. Although the Chicago packer had to pay higher prices for poorer beef, he was able to take the market. The explanation is easy. For choice cuts he found ready sale at fancy prices. The hide he sold to a tanner, the hoofs to a glue factor, the horns to a button maker, the entrails to the lubricating works, even the hair found a market, and the bones he boiled for prepared soup and afterward sold to fertilizing establishments. Astoria did not afford these various markets and all save the meat itself became waste. The best cuts went with the coarser parts into the cans and of the refuse only the hides were salable. In fruit and vegetable canning there is no such waste.

Philadelphia is rapidly losing her export business. For 1876 she exported nearly 20 per cent. of the total amount of grain which was shipped from the Atlantic ports, in 1878 16 per cent., in 1880 12 per cent, in 1881 10 4 per cent, and in the first four months of 1882 only about 6 per cent., while even Boston in the same time has exported 11 4 per cent, Baltimore 16 per cent and New York 60 per cent. The decline seems to have been steady since 1876, but is the most startling in the first four months of the current year. In 1873 we exported 40 6 per cent of the total amount, in 1874, 36 7 per cent., in 1876, 29 3 per cent., in 1879, 22 4 per cent., and in 1881 23 2 per cent while New York for 1881 exported 72 8 per cent. The Times, commenting on these figures, says: "If it is objected that these are extreme figures it must also be remembered they are furnished by our own maritime exchange and therefore are from a friendly source. They require careful consideration and if possible a remedy should be sought for the unwarranted decline. The causes are very largely due to the indifference of the public to those vital matters. This city is situated on one of the main arteries of the grain-carrying system, and certainly the grain should be laid down here enough cheaper than in New York to pay the extra ocean freight from here to Europe. Petroleum is chiefly produced in our own state, and is so much nearer our own seaport that we ought to refine and export three fourths of the total amount, instead of less than one-fourth. One of the chief difficulties lies in the fact that differential railroad rates have been practically abolished, and New York and Boston have obtained the advantage of time and distance by this means to build up their export trade at our expense."

Ought the senator whom Oregon is to elect to be merely an adroit and unscrupulous political demagogue — a man whose life has outraged the moral sentiment of the state and broken down his party — whose political methods are habitually of the most debased and debasing kind — who has made merchandise of places in the public service for his own ends — who has been through the whole of his active life an agent and instrument of great corporations — who is notoriously without moral sensibility or breadth of culture — and who is coarse, selfish and corrupt in every fiber of his nature? Is there a man among all those who are spoken of for the senate who would be recognized by these touches? If so are these qualities — these the outlines of character — to be sought in a representative of the state?

The city of New York has a population of 1 800 000, of which 597 497 are church members, and of these latter 300 000 are Roman Catholics, 25 275 are Episcopalians, 21 300 Presbyterian, 13 359 Methodist, 12 685 Baptist, 7 700 Lutheran, 4981 Dutch Reformed, 3947 Jews, 2466 Congregational, 1200 Universalist and 500 Unitarian. The increase of church membership there since 1840 has been: Catholic 400 per cent, Lutheran 400, Episcopal 216, Unitarian 150, Jews 14[illegible], Congregational 126, Universalist 100, Presbyterian 60, Baptist 4[illegible], Methodist 3[illegible] and Dutch Reformed 14 per cent. These interesting figures are taken from an exhaustive review of church life in New York and Brooklyn in the New York Times.

It is a notable fact that with the decay of American shipping China is making a bold start in shipping on the ocean. The London Nautical Magazine in a recent review of Chinese shipping prospects admits the possibility of British supremacy in the Chinese seas being any day overshadowed by celestial merchant marine. Ten years ago only three per cent of the lucrative coasting trade between the treaty ports was done by Chinese vessels, and in 1874 the United States had forty-two per cent, but this has been all changed. China has been rapidly driving American ships out of her own waters until now our shipping figures for barely a fifth the part of the total [illegible]

The Daily Oregonian.

THURSDAY MORNING, AUGUST 17, 1882

[illegible] Parties [illegible] have The Daily Oregonian sent to them at [illegible] the [illegible] month, [illegible] the business office of the paper.

CITY.

Drowning.—Yesterday morning a [illegible] known as The [illegible] White House, [illegible] a skiff. When near [illegible] was run down by [illegible] was thrown out [illegible] right, and [illegible] were unable to render [illegible]. At last accounts the body had not been recovered. [illegible] about forty years [illegible] the influence of liquor when he got into the boat.

Wedding at Salem.—Among the notable [illegible] events at Salem was the marriage yesterday of Mr. [illegible] W. Langdon, the well known druggist of Albany, to Miss N. [illegible] Piper, daughter of Hon. [illegible] Piper, of Salem, a lady who [illegible] at the head of the vocalists of this state, and one whose social [illegible] endeared her to the hearts of a large circle of friends. The [illegible] Brass Band of Albany [illegible] for the purpose of attending the wedding [illegible] morning train [illegible] S. Dennison officiating, and by their presence, together with the rendition by them of several choice instrumental selections, added materially to the interest of the festive occasion.

Mr. Meddler.—Tuesday afternoon, [illegible] English, a dissipated physician who has frequently been in the police court, took upon himself the office of peace-maker between a husband and wife living on the corner of Fifth and A. The woman had a butcher knife in her hand (the instrument had probably not been used for slicing bread) and as English approached her, she made a savage slash, cutting him across the right wrist and severing all the arteries. English bound the wrist as best he could and walked to the office of Dr. Harry Lane, who sewed the wound. English was so weak from the loss of blood when he reached the office that he fainted several times. No arrests.

Unwilling Witness.—William Palmer, who was jointly charged with O. Franklin with assaulting John McDermott in a First street saloon, was up for trial in the police court yesterday. When the prosecuting witness was placed on the stand he did not seem to know which of the men had beaten him. He acted as if he did not want to prosecute, and on motion of District Attorney Mulkey the complaint against Palmer was dismissed, and the costs taxed against the complaining witness. Franklin had previously pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $10 and costs. He also paid the costs charged against McDermott, making the total sum which he was out of pocket about $43.

Killed by Falling from a Bridge.—Between Tuesday night and Wednesday morning, James O'Brien, an Irish laborer, aged thirty, fell from the North street bridge, East Portland, into Sullivan's gulch and was killed. The body was discovered early yesterday morning by A. Sparling, a carpenter at work on the bridge. The skull was fractured and bones of the legs were broken. He was last seen late Tuesday afternoon. It is supposed that while under the influence of liquor, he started across the bridge, which is not yet safe for passengers, and fell over. Coroner Cooke was notified and summoned a jury who returned a verdict in accordance with the above facts.

Robbing a Comrade.—Billy Williams stole $16 from his room-mate, John Fitzgerald, the other day and was arraigned in Justice Greene's court yesterday for the crime. The evidence was strong against him, and he was held to answer before the grand jury in the sum of $250 bonds, in default of which he was committed to jail.

Married.—Mr. R. Merchant of North Yamhill, and Miss Minnie Stewart of Yakima City, were married in the presence of a few friends at the St. Charles parlors last night, Mr. Bruce Wolverton, pastor of the Christian church, officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Merchant leave this morning for a tour of the Inland Empire.

First Press Dispatch.—The account of the Hutchinson murder at Yaquina City, published in another column, is the first press dispatch ever received over the newly constructed line. Heretofore news from Yaquina bay and neighborhood has come by stage or mounted messenger to Corvallis.

Loading Barge.—The new Astoria barge, No. 1, is lying at Nicolai's wharf near the bone yard. She is taking in 40,000 brick from Dunn's yard, and a quantity of lime and cement for the new Odd Fellows' building at Astoria. The barge is the largest [illegible] this port.

Back Again.—Charles Fairfax some time ago was sent to jail for forty days for drunkenness and disorderly conduct. He served eleven days, and upon his earnest entreaty was allowed to go. He was again arrested yesterday and will have to finish out his sentence.

Excursion to Rooster Rock.—Next Sunday, the Martha Washington association will give an excursion to Rooster Rock and Latourell Falls. The steamer City of Salem will leave the foot of Washington street at 8:30 A. M., returning at 7:30 P. M.

Accident.—Ralph Pittock, son of Mr. Robert Pittock, who lives near the Falling school house, fell from a fence and fractured his collar bone. Dr. Plummer was called and restored the bone to its natural position.

New Superintendent.—Councilman John S. [illegible] was yesterday appointed by the board of directors superintendent of the mechanics' fair. His office is with Mr. Geo. L. Story, corner First and Stark streets.

To Sail the 23d.—The cabin carpenters and painters not yet having finished work on the steamer Yaquina, her sailing date has been postponed until next Wednesday, 23d. She will receive freight on Monday.

Challenge.—The Portland Light Battery have challenged the Emmet Guard to a rifle contest for [illegible] each company to enter eight bona fide members.

KOORSBACK VS. STECHHAN.

Judge Allen Decides that the Portland Manager was not Compelled to pay Salaries!

[Special dispatch to the Oregonian.]

San Francisco, Aug. 16.—A judgment for the defendant has been rendered in the appeal case of Frank Koorsback, who sued F. W. Stechhan, manager of New Market theater, to recover $160, balance due plaintiff as leading tenor of the Louise Lester Opera Company. The company was engaged through Louis [illegible], to play six operas at $250 a week. While [illegible] made the contracts, Stechhan insisted upon handling the money and paying salaries until he could reimburse himself for what he had advanced, the engagement commencing disadvantageously. Judge Allen considered that while Stechhan was in good morals obliged to pay he was not in law.

[The [illegible] Judge Allen is right, but if he had heard Frank Koorsback sing "Let Me Like a Soldier Fall," in "The Daughter of the Regiment," he would have decided that the alleged tenor was indebted to Manager Stechhan in the sum of about $1000 for assisting with his entire lack of talent to spoil what might have been a profitable season's business.]

To Music Buyers.—Wiley B. Allen, 153 Third street, Portland, has an immense stock of new music and books, just arrived. Orders filled promptly. Usual discounts to the trade and teachers. Boston prices on all kinds of musical merchandise. Send stamp for descriptive catalogue of music.

Resolved, That notice be given that the common council propose to improve First street from the south line of Ash street to the north line of Sheridan street, by laying new sidewalks and crosswalks, and by doing the necessary grading therefor. The sidewalk crossing plank between Ash and Madison streets to be three inches in thickness.

Resolved, That notice be given that the common council propose to improve Front street from the south line of Vine street to the north line of Harrison street, by laying sidewalks and crosswalks and by doing the necessary grading therefor. The sidewalk crossing plank to be three inches in thickness between View and Madison streets.

Resolved, That notice be given that the common council propose to improve Morrison street from the west line of Front street to the east line of Twelfth street, by constructing sidewalks and crosswalks and doing the necessary grading therefor.

Resolved, That notice be given that the common council propose to improve North Thirteenth street between R and S streets by laying new sidewalks and crosswalks and doing the necessary grading therefor.

Resolved, That notice be given that the common council propose to improve Sixth and N. Sixth streets from the south line of Pine street to the south line of B street, by constructing sidewalks and crosswalks and macadamizing the street full width between curbs, with the necessary grading therefor.

Resolved, That notice be given that the common council propose to improve Eighth street from the south line of Stark street to the north line of Harrison street by constructing sidewalks and crosswalks and doing the necessary grading therefor.

Resolved, That the auditor and clerk be directed to issue warrants for the collection of assessments for the improvement of N. Fourteenth street.

Whereas, Owing to the rapid growth of the city of Portland the present charter of said city has proven inadequate to meet the requirements; and,

Whereas, The state legislature will meet in September at which time it is deemed best to apply for certain amendments, or a re-enactment of the said charter; and,

Whereas, In order that a bill may be prepared for presentation to the legislature, it is deemed advisable to appoint a commission of three persons, having the interest of the city at heart, and possessing sufficient ability to prepare a charter that will meet the requirements of a city, and the approval of its tax-payers. Therefore be it

Resolved, That Henry Failing, Jno. Catlin and C. A. Dolph be and are hereby appointed as such commission, to prepare a bill amending, or re-enacting as they deem best, the present city charter.

Resolved, That said commission be and are hereby requested to make their report of such amendments, in the form of a bill, at a meeting of the common council to be held on the 30th of August, 1882.

Resolved, That said commission be allowed such compensation for their services as the council may deem proper and right.

Resolved, That when the council adjourns it adjourn to meet on Wednesday evening, August 30th, at eight o'clock P. M. to receive the report of said commission.

Notes of the Session.

Over two hours were occupied in transacting business.

Hare, the new policeman, is 6 feet high and weighs 215 pounds.

Chief Engineer Hart reports 116 officers and men at present in the fire department.

The seven night watchmen to be appointed, with police powers, are not to be paid by the city or wear the uniform.

The Multnomah Railway Company and the Multnomah Street Railway Company were both represented by petitions to the council.

Clerk Durham felt grateful to several councilmen for moving that the lengthy reports of the chief engineer and sewer assessors be considered read.

BAND PLAYING ON THE STREETS.

The petition against the Elite theater band provoked much discussion.

Councilman Honeyman moved that it be declared a nuisance and suppressed accordingly.

Hewett said he understood the band had agreed to stop if the ordinance prohibiting playing upon the street for any purpose whatever was not passed.

Kellogg said he had gone to see the parties across the way, and they had promised to stop playing after eight o'clock in the evening, and he had thought this would prevent annoyance of any meetings. They had said they would stop entirely if requested. He thought they wanted to do everything right and square, and the council ought not to stop musicians from earning a livelihood by the passage of the ordinance referred to.

Honeyman said it was either a nuisance or not a nuisance. This band across the way, [illegible] he was willing [illegible] record [illegible] the ordinance had been read the first and second times, referred to a committee, reported back and referred to the committee again, where it was now [illegible] natural death.

An ordinance regulating hacks and fixing the rates of fare.

The City of Portland does ordain as follows:

Section 1. Every vehicle, except railroad cars, which shall be used in this city for the conveyance of persons for hire [illegible] shall be deemed a hack within the meaning of this ordinance.

Sec. 2. No person having charge of a hack shall allow the same to stand within ten (10) feet of any street crossing, nor at a greater distance than two (2) feet from the center edge of any sidewalk.

Sec. 3. No person shall charge or receive a higher rate of fare than is specified in the following schedule, to wit:

For a hack drawn by more than one horse for one or two persons, to any part of the city, one dollar ($1); for each additional person, fifty cents (50c). For calling or calling, first hour, for three or less persons, two dollars ($2); for each additional hour, one dollar and fifty cents ($1 50). For a hack drawn by one horse, for one or two persons, to any part of the city, seventy-five cents (75 cents); for each additional person, twenty-five cents (25 cents); each additional hour fifty cents (50 cents).

Sec. 4. Every owner or driver of a hack shall at all times keep conspicuously posted within the hack or hacks of which he may have charge in such position as to be easily read, the number of such carriage, and also a notice showing the rates of fare which may be lawfully charged for the use thereof.

Sec. 5. No person shall use, or drive, or have upon a public street a hack at night without having a lighted lantern affixed to each side thereof, near the driver's seat.

Sec. 6. Any person who shall violate any of the provisions of this ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof before the police court, shall be punished by a fine of not less than five dollars nor more than 100 dollars, or by imprisonment in the city jail not less than three days nor more than fifty days.

CHARLES BROWN'S DEFENSE.

He Tries to Account for the Money Alleged to have been Stolen from the Humboldt Brewery.

[Special dispatch to the Oregonian.]

San Francisco, Aug. 16.—Chas. Brown, a passenger who arrived from Portland yesterday on the steamer State of California, has been arrested on a telegram received from Chief [illegible] of East Portland. Brown is accused of robbing the safe of [illegible], brewers, in East Portland, and taking therefrom [illegible]. Officers in searching him found in a pocket $360 in gold and $36 in greenback currency notes secreted in his shoes. Brown claimed to be on his way to his brother in Cincinnati and that $150 of the money he had on his person had been won by him last fall at faro at Walla Walla, that $80 he had made by trading in horses and the remainder was his savings from a year's labor in Portland. He gave as reason for putting the currency in his shoes that he adopted that method to prevent being broke should he be robbed of the gold. Deducting his passage money and price of a complete outfit he had in a trunk would bring the amount recovered within $2 of the sum claimed to be stolen. Brown will be held in custody until the arrival of an officer from Portland with a requisition.

BAIN MURDER TRIAL AT ASTORIA.

[Special dispatch to the Oregonian.]

Astoria, Aug. 16.—The trial of John Bain, indicted for murder in the first degree, for killing A. L. Alexander, is in progress in state circuit court. A LOST ART RESTORED.

Modern Production of Egyptian and Phoenician Glassware.

Boston Herald.

Invention or discovery sometimes takes a whirl backward, as is strikingly illustrated in the revival of a lost art by a man who can better claim the honor of discovery rather than invention. Under the Roman empire specimens of Egyptian and Phoenician glassware containing gold and silver, in amalgamation with the glass, were sold at royal prices in Rome. Fabulous sums are recorded as having been paid for them, and efforts were made even then to get at the secret of their manufacture, but without success. With the decadence of the empire, the jewel glassware vanished. All that is left of it to-day are specimens disinterred from Roman and African ruins, and held as priceless treasures by the great European museums. The Venetians made repeated attempts to recover this art, lost in the shadows of tradition, but commemorated by objects whose existence was a perpetual challenge to their skill. Countless experiments resulted in the development of a system of spangling the surface of glass with the precious metals, but the fusing of the metals in the crystal defied all analysis. After centuries of labor the glass-workers of Murano were forced to acknowledge that the simple skill of a primitive people had accomplished what all their elaborate processes could not imitate.

It was left to accident to perform what science failed to achieve. Some years ago Mr. Theophilus D. Farrall, a practical glassworker in England, was superintending the coating of some metal rods with glass. The rods, which were of nickel, were to be used in finishing off a room walled with mirrors. In order to keep accumulating moisture from rusting the interior of the rods, Mr. Farrall set his men to work coating that surface with glass. Presently one of the workmen came to him and announced that he had spoiled his rod. But it was a case of destruction which meant discovery. The heat of the glass blown into it had melted the rod, and, instead of a cylinder of nickel with glass, there was a tube of glass filled with the most beautiful silvery spots and verifications, exactly as they occur in the specimens of ancient ware in the British museum. Experiments on this lead resulted in the perfection of the processes. In the manufacture of the art glass, the ordinary glass-blower's tools are used. The blow-pipe is the principal one. The quality of the glass used is superior, being specially made with a view to ductility and toughness. After a ball of glass has been attached to the end of a blow-pipe, in the usual fashion, it is rolled over a sheet of gold or silver foil on an iron table. The metal adheres to it. It is then reheated and blown, when the foil splits under expansion and runs in veins or spots. Rough glass of various colors is rolled into the hot ball and heated and blown again and again, until the mass exhibits the required variety of tones, when it is blown in a mold to the shape desired.

A peculiarity of Mr. Farrall's method is, that it employs tints unknown to the glass trade at large. The variety of colors produced rivals that of the painter's palette. This new art in glass is being adapted to an enormous variety of purposes already. For tableware, toilet use and household ornaments it can be turned into an almost limitless number of shapes. But it also promises extensive usefulness in decoration, and is looked upon with interest in that connection.

"OLD CUNNINGHAM'S FOLLY."

Ramblers in the region of Irvington, on the Hudson, will recall the structure of granite high on the hill. They have probably never seen more than the outside of the pile, and they will be interested in this account which we find in the New York Times. The house was built twenty-four years ago, and yet a light never shone in it at night. All these years it has stood tenantless. Carved in the tower is the inscription, "Erected by James Cunningham, 1858." James Cunningham was a wealthy old Scotchman who made his money mainly in steamboat ventures. He was one of the party who took the first steamer "around the horn" to San Francisco. He was the brother-in-law of D. O. Mills and Hebor R. Bishop of New York. In his old age he determined to seek comfort on the Hudson. He bought land on the hill above Irvington, and erected a house. He drafted his own plans, and a strange house he made of Craig Hall, as he named it. Just as he finished it he died. His heirs never saw fit to live in it, and year in and year out it has remained uninhabited. There is no particular style of architecture about it. It is an irregular pile, built somewhat in the form of an octagon, and three stories high. The interior displays the oddity. In the very centre, taking up half the house, and extending from the ground to the roof, is a rotunda, which is lighted with a stained glass dome. All the rooms on the first two floors open into this rotunda. At the second floor a gallery, reached by a flight of stairs, encircles the rotunda. The top floor was intended to be the servants' quarters. The rooms are gained by stairs in the rear, but windows from every one of them open into a rotunda. All the stone in the house was taken from the grounds, but finishing off the interior wood from every part of the world was used. The old man saw every particle of the work performed that was done in the hall, and often used to say: "Demme, if I don't believe one hundred years hence this will be called 'Old Cunningham's Folly.'" The paint is coming off the woodwork and in places the veneering is loose, but otherwise the house is in fair condition. No furniture was ever put in the house, but in the cellar is a steam boiler and arrangements for heating it. The grounds are unadorned, and little is done about them except to cut the crop of hay. On a knoll at the side of the house a reservoir was built, but now the water runs through it like a sieve. There are twenty-four acres of land in the place. The Cunningham property was left in such shape by the terms of the will, it is said, that it cannot be sold, and the heir, who is in California, does not care to occupy it. The figure put upon the estate is two hundred thousand dollars. The view from the elevation is beautiful, but the grounds lack many improvements. There is a fine stone lodge at the gate.

FOUR SPURIOUS BABIES.

A Father with a Bogus Family—A Philadelphia Woman Presents her Husband with four Almshouse Babies.

Philadelphia Times.

Among the daily increasing list of victims of the Philadelphia almshouse method of disposing of surplus babies is John Scarlett, of Wheeling, West Virginia. Mr. Scarlett is a member of a family highly respected in their section of the state, and prior to the year 1875 was in a fair way of becoming a wealthy and prominent citizen of his native city. In that year, however, he came to Philadelphia and fell in with a woman whom he subsequently married, and who has made him the ostensible father of three almshouse babies; and not content with this the remarkable wife procured a fourth infant from a foundling hospital in Philadelphia, which she also palmed off upon her husband as her own, constituting a full quartet of spurious children.

Many years ago Kate Richardson was one of the most widely known women, among a certain class of people, in the city of Philadelphia. Prior to her marriage with Silas Richardson, at present a resident of Philadelphia, she had led an extremely fast life. Petite in figure and of prepossessing appearance, she was much sought after, and when early in the last decade she married "Si" Richardson, much regret was expressed by many admirers. After, however, a short and stormy period of wedded life with her first husband, she left him and plunged once more into the [illegible] days, cutting loose from the restraints ... [illegible] ... John Scarlett came to Philadelphia from Wheeling on business. Chance threw him in Kate Richardson's way, and he soon became infatuated with her beauty, which was then at its prime. He returned to Wheeling after a visit of a week or two, but soon came to Philadelphia, sought out the girl and very readily persuaded her to marry him. They went back to Wheeling and for several [illegible] lived together happily [illegible]

THE FIRST DECEPTION.

"Her restless disposition, however, would not permit her to be long content with a quiet domestic life, and early in the year [illegible] [illegible] to Philadelphia, telling her husband that she [illegible]

baby, which she intended to palm off on her husband as her own. Her friend, Mrs. Atkinson, was taken into her confidence, and the project unfolded to her. Mrs. Atkinson attempted to dissuade the woman from her purpose, telling her that it could not possibly result in any good, and asserting that it would be impossible to keep the truth from her husband. Mrs. Scarlett, however, had made up her mind [illegible] [illegible] was at this time called in, as it was deemed necessary to complete the plot by a [illegible] outside person into the [illegible]. In a short time, however, the child, which was a puny little thing, sickened, and it was found necessary to engage the services of a doctor. A physician was accordingly called in to prescribe for the infant, but nothing was at this time said to him about its parentage. The little baby soon grew worse and died, a certificate of death being given by the attending physician.

A DETERMINED WOMAN.

It would seem as though this experience would have sufficed to dissuade Mrs. Scarlett from her singular project, but on the contrary, she was more determined than ever to execute her plan. She accordingly summoned the doctor who had attended the dead child and expressed her desires to him, asking his assistance in carrying out her purpose successfully. The physician, however, discountenanced the woman's project, and indignantly refused to have anything to do with the matter. The woman, however, procured the services of a friend, who obtained for her a baby from a foundling asylum near Fifteenth street. Better success was had with this child, and in a few weeks Mrs. Scarlett and her spurious offspring returned to Wheeling to gladden the eyes of the expectant husband. Some months afterward this remarkable wife returned to Philadelphia under the same pretext as before, and in course of time another almshouse baby was added to the family circle in Wheeling. A third was produced later in a similar manner, and the indulging husband was forced to find sustenance for a trio of babies, the offspring of as many different mothers, neither of whom was his own wife. But one of the children survived.

A year or two ago, Mrs. Scarlett again returned to Philadelphia, and for a time lived in a house on Front street below Girard. She went back to Wheeling after the lapse of some months, however, and is now living there with her husband and her almshouse baby.

Mrs. Atkinson has changed her residence since the remarkable baby substitution took place, and is now living with her husband at No. 605 Huntingdon street. Mr. and Mrs. Atkinson are both thoroughly conversant with the details of the story, and it is substantially from the statement of the former that the above facts are given.

SENATOR HILL'S CASE.

The Horrible Affliction of Cancer in the Mouth and the Patient Suffering with which it been Borne.

Our dispatches announce the death of Senator Hill of Georgia. The disease, which was a terrible one, is explained by the following dispatch from Atlanta, published a few days ago by the Chicago Times:

A dispatch from Atlanta, Ga., says: In modern annals there has not been a death so full of horrors as that which Georgia's great orator and statesman, Benjamin Harvey Hill, is now suffering. Nor has the resignation and Christian philosophy exhibited been excelled. Slowly dying of one of the most loathsome of diseases, he is yet cheerful, patient and resigned. Talking to-day with his physician and son-in-law, Dr. Ridley, I learned the details of the case, as now presented. The patient is put to sleep every night about 8 o'clock with a hypodermic injection of morphine and does not awake until 11 o'clock the following morning. He then is assisted to dress and sits during the day in an easy chair placed near the window of a pavilion attached to the north side of his residence, with a window and door opening to the east on to a veranda. There he sits the whole day, the subject of the most assiduous attention from the devoted family. He reads a little, newspapers, his mail, and some devotional works; also writes down his passing impressions, indites letters and communicates with those to whom his almost inarticulate mutterings are unintelligible.

Three grains of morphine are administered daily, the patient never being allowed to come thoroughly from under the influence. His food consists of milk into which the yolks of three eggs have been beaten and a little whisky added. About three quarts of this mixture is passed into the patient's stomach every day through a tube, no portion of the fluid touching his palate. The cancer, for such it is acknowledged to be by all but those who have not had any connection with the case, has destroyed all the tissues of his throat and mouth on the left side as well as the lower jaw or sub-auxiliary bone. The opening is so large that two or three fingers pass freely up into the mouth from below, and the palate can be seen when the patient is lying down and one approaches him from the feet. The outer carotid artery is exposed, and pulsation is plainly seen. The soft or connective tissue has been eaten away, and only such tough, elastic substances as compose the walls of the artery are left intact. What is left of the tongue is attached to the right side by a very slender ligament, and the constant fear is felt that it shall become detached and fall into the patient's throat when asleep, and thus end his sufferings, while sufficient strength might exist for a further continuance of the contest with the dread destroyer. His mouth is kept filled with absorbent and antiseptic cotton, which is frequently changed, as in the dressing on the outside. No internal remedy is now given, nor has any been administered since the abandonment of the French cancer cure, which consisted in the injection into the blood of purified carbolic acid, the object being to destroy the cancerous germs in the blood.

For three years Mr. Hill suffered with an ulcerous sore on his tongue before he told even his wife. Then, by advice of his friends, he consulted Dr. Bayard, an uncle of the Delaware senator, who practices homeopathy in New York. For eight months this physician treated him, and reported constant improvement. But the patient was growing worse, and he finally realized that he was in danger and placed himself in the hands of Dr. Gross and the Philadelphia hospital staff.

The evidences of the sufferer's entire resignation are numerous. The other day he called his son Charles to him: "I am soon going to a better land, Charles; don't you wish you could come along, too? These are the happiest days of my life." Such is the tenor of all his utterances to his family and friends. In writing to an old servant, now in Athens, Ga., the other day, he reiterated the remark that this was the happiest period of his existence. He might have been guilty of errors in his worldly intercourse, but now felt fully prepared to meet his maker. The Lord had given him a good long notice, and he was fully prepared for the summons when it came. The final change, it is now thought, will come from sheer exhaustion. If the morphine was suspended he would soon sink from the effects of pain. Now all that can be done is to alleviate the suffering and prolong the few days which, in spite of his terrible condition, he seems to prize more than those upon which he gained his glory.

The Purest and Best Medicine ever Made.

A combination of Hops, Buchu, Mandrake and Dandelion, with all the best and most curative properties of all other Bitters, makes the greatest Blood Purifier, Liver Regulator, and Life and Health Restoring Agent on earth.

No disease can possibly long exist where Hop Bitters are used, so varied and perfect are their operations.

They give new life and vigor to the aged and infirm.

To all whose employments cause irregularity of the bowels or urinary organs, or who require an Appetizer, Tonic and mild Stimulant, Hop Bitters are invaluable, without intoxicating.

No matter what your feelings or symptoms are what the disease or ailment is use Hop Bitters. Don't wait until you are sick but if you only feel bad or miserable, use them at once. It may save your life. It has saved hundreds.

$500 will be paid for a case they will not cure or help. Do not suffer nor let your friends suffer, but use and urge them to use Hop Bitters.

Remember, Hop Bitters is no vile, drugged drunken nostrum, but the Purest and Best Medicine ever made; the "INVALIDS FRIEND and HOPE" and no person or family should be without them.

D.I.C. is an absolute and irresistible cure for Drunkenness, use of opium, tobacco and narcotics. All sold by druggists. Send for Circular. Hop Bitters Mfg. Co., Rochester, N.Y. and Toronto, Ont.

OUR

RED LETTER SALE

Commences To-Day.

We have made substantial reductions in [illegible] of our Clothing, and to convince the most skeptical that we HAVE DONE SO, we invite them to inspect our stock and see for themselves [illegible] RED INK we have marked our selling prices, which will show a reduction ranging from $2 50 to $5 per suit in both Men's and Boys' Clothing. This reduction applies to our entire stock of Clothing. A heavy Fall Stock, to arrive in the course of a few weeks, and lack of room for it, is our reason for reducing prices—thus enabling purchasers to procure reliable merchandise below the market price.

JULY 17, 1882—10:22 A. M.

Michalitschke Brothers & Co. advertise in the Oregonian that for reasons best known to themselves they have discontinued our agency, and offer their San Francisco Chinese-made Cigars in competition.

In response to same we beg to inform the public that, for good and sufficient reasons, WE CANCELED THEIR ORDERS standing on our books on the 8th day of May last, and REFUSED TO SELL THEM any further, or have anything further to do with them, their application to us notwithstanding. This is where the shoe pinches; hence their animosity.

A LOST ART RESTORED.

Modern Production of Egyptian and Phenician Glassware.

Boston Herald.

Invention or discovery sometimes takes a whirl backward, as is strikingly illustrated in the revival of a lost art by a man who can better claim the honor of discovery rather than invention. Under the Roman empire specimens of Egyptian and Phenician glassware, containing gold and silver, in amalgamation with the glass, were sold at royal prices in Rome. Fabulous sums are recorded as having been paid for them, and efforts were made even then to get at the secret of their manufacture, but without success. With the decadence of the empire, the jewel glassware vanished. All that is left of it to-day are specimens disinterred from Roman and African ruins, and held as priceless treasures by the great European museums. The Venetians made repeated attempts to recover this art, lost in the shadows of tradition, but commemorated by objects whose existence was a perpetual challenge to their skill. Countless experiments resulted in the development of a system of spangling the surface of glass with the precious metals, but the fusing of the metals in the crystal defied all analysis. After centuries of labor the glass-workers of Murano were forced to acknowledge that the simple skill of a primitive people had accomplished what all their elaborate processes could not imitate.

It was left to accident to perform what science failed to achieve. Some years ago Mr. Theophilus D. Farrall, a practical glassworker in England, was superintending the coating of some metal rods with glass. The rods, which were of nickel, were to be used in finishing off a room walled with mirrors. In order to keep accumulating moisture from rusting the interior of the rods, Mr. Farrall set his men to work coating that surface with glass. Presently one of the workmen came to him and announced that he had spoiled his rod. But it was a case of destruction which meant discovery. The heat of the glass blown into it had melted the rod, and, instead of a cylinder of nickel with glass, there was a tube of glass filled with the most beautiful silvery spots and verifications, exactly as they occur in the specimens of ancient ware in the British museum. Experiments on this lead resulted in the perfection of the processes. In the manufacture of the art glass, the ordinary glass-blower's tools are used. The blow-pipe is the principal one. The quality of the glass used is superior, being specially made with a view to ductility and toughness. After a ball of glass has been attached to the end of a blow-pipe, in the usual fashion, it is rolled over a sheet of gold or silver foil on an iron table. The metal adheres to it. It is then reheated and blown, when the foil splits under expansion and runs in veins or spots. Rough glass of various colors is rolled into the hot ball and heated and blown again and again, until the mass exhibits the required variety of tones, when it is blown in a mold to the shape desired.

A peculiarity of Mr. Farrall's method is, that it employs tints unknown to the glass trade at large. The variety of colors produced rivals that of the painter's palette. This new art in glass is being adapted to an enormous variety of purposes already. For tableware toilet use and household ornaments it can be turned into an almost limitless number of shapes. But it also promises extensive usefulness in decoration, and is looked upon with interest in that connection.

"OLD CUNNINGHAM'S FOLLY."

Ramblers in the region of Irvington, on the Hudson, will recall the structure of granite high on the hill. They have probably never seen more than the outside of the pile, and they will be interested in this account which we find in the New York Times. The house was built twenty-four years ago, and yet a light never shone in it at night. All these years it has stood tenantless. Carved in the tower is the inscription, "Erected by James Cunningham, 1858." James Cunningham was a wealthy old Scotchman who made his money mainly in steamboat ventures. He was one of the party who took the first steamer "around the horn" to San Francisco. He was the brother-in-law of D. O. Mills and Heber R. Bishop of New York. In his old age he determined to seek comfort on the Hudson. He bought land on the hill above Irvington, and erected a house. He drafted his own plans, and a strange house he made of Craig Hall, as he named it. Just as he finished it he died. His heirs never saw fit to live in it, and year in and year out it has remained uninhabited. There is no particular style of architecture about it. It is an irregular pile, built somewhat in the form of an octagon, and three stories high. The interior displays the oddity. In the very centre, taking up half the house, and extending from the ground to the roof, is a rotunda, which is lighted with a stained glass dome. All the rooms on the first two floors open into this rotunda. At the second floor a gallery, reached by a flight of stairs, encircles the rotunda. The top floor was intended to be the servants' quarters. The rooms are gained by stairs in the rear, but windows from every one of them open into a rotunda. All the stone in the house was taken from the grounds, but finishing off the interior wood from every part of the world was used. The old man saw every particle of the work performed that was done in the hall, and often used to say: "Dammo, if I don't believe one hundred years hence this will be called 'Old Cunningham's Folly.'" The paint is coming off the woodwork and in places the veneering is loose, but otherwise the house is in fair condition. No furniture was ever put in the house, but in the cellar is a steam boiler and arrangements for heating it. The grounds are unadorned, and little is done about them except to cut the crop of hay. On a knoll at the side of the house a reservoir was built, but now the water runs through it like a sieve. There are twenty-four acres of land in the place. The Cunningham property was left in such shape by the terms of the will, it is said, that it cannot be sold, and the heir, who is in California, does not care to occupy it. The figure put upon the estate is two hundred thousand dollars. The view from the elevation is beautiful, but the grounds lack many improvements. There is a fine stone lodge at the gate.

FOUR SPURIOUS BABIES.

Philadelphia Times.

Among the daily increasing list of victims of the Philadelphia almshouse method of disposing of surplus babies is John Scarlett, of Wheeling, West Virginia. Mr. Scarlett is a member of a family highly respected in their section of the state, and prior to the year 1875 was in a fair way of becoming a wealthy and prominent citizen of his native city. In that year, however, he came to Philadelphia and fell in with a woman whom he subsequently married, and who has made him the ostensible father of three almshouse babies, and not content with this the remarkable wife procured a fourth infant from a foundling hospital in Philadelphia, which she also palmed off upon her husband as her own, constituting a full quartet of spurious children.

Many years ago Kate Richardson was one of the most widely known women, among a certain class of people, in the city of Philadelphia. Prior to her marriage with Silas Richardson, at present a resident of Philadelphia, she had led an extremely fast life. Petite in figure and of prepossessing appearance, she was much sought after, and when early in the last decade she married "Si" Richardson, much regret was expressed by many admirers. After, however, a short and stormy period of wedded life with her first husband, she left him and plunged once more into the life of her girlhood days, cutting loose from the restraints [illegible] some life [illegible] about her. In the winter of '75, John Scarlett came to Philadelphia from Wheeling on business. Chance threw him in Kate Richardson's way and he soon became infatuated with her beauty, which was then in its prime. He returned to Wheeling after a visit of a week or two, but soon came to Philadelphia, sought out the girl and very readily persuaded her to marry him. They went back to Wheeling and [illegible] lived together happily [illegible]

THE FIRST [illegible]

Her restless disposition, however, would not permit her to be long contented with a quiet home life, and early in the [illegible] she returned to Philadelphia [illegible] [illegible]

baby, which she intended to palm off on her husband as her own. Her friend, Mrs. Atkinson was taken into her confidence, and the project unfolded to her. Mrs. Atkinson attempted to dissuade the woman from her purpose, telling her that it could not possibly result in any [illegible] and [illegible] that it would be impossible to [illegible] the truth long from her husband. Mrs. Scarlett, however, had made up her mind [illegible] [illegible] She finally succeeded in persuading Mrs. Atkinson to [illegible] [illegible] A new born infant was accordingly procured from the almshouse and taken to [illegible] on East York street, where Mrs. Scarlett was staying. The baby was [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] was at this time called in, as it was deemed unnecessary to complicate the plot by admitting an outside person into the secret. In a short time, however, the child, which was a puny little [illegible], sickened, and it was found necessary to engage the services of a doctor. A physician was accordingly called in to prescribe for the infant, but nothing was at this time said to him about its parentage. The little baby soon grew worse and died, a certificate of death being given by the attending physician.

[illegible]

It would seem as though this experience would have sufficed to dissuade Mrs. Scarlett from her singular project, but on the contrary, she was more determined than ever to execute her plan. She accordingly summoned the doctor who had attended the dead child and expressed her desires to him, seeking his assistance in carrying out her purpose successfully. The physician, however, discountenanced the woman's project, and indignantly refused to have anything to do with the matter. The woman, however, procured the services of a friend, who obtained for her a baby from a foundling asylum near Fifteenth street. Better success was had with this child, and in a few weeks Mrs. Scarlett and her spurious offspring returned to Wheeling to gladden the eyes of the expectant husband. Some months afterward this remarkable wife returned to Philadelphia under the same pretext as before, and in course of time another almshouse baby was added to the family circle in Wheeling. A third was produced later in a similar manner, and the indulging husband was forced to find sustenance for a trio of babies, the offspring of as many different mothers, neither of whom was his own wife. But one of the children survived.

A year or two ago, Mrs. Scarlett again returned to Philadelphia, and for a time lived in a house on Front street below Girard. She went back to Wheeling after the lapse of some months, however, and is now living there with her husband and her almshouse baby.

Mrs. Atkinson has changed her residence since the remarkable baby substitution took place, and is now living with her husband at No. 605 Huntingdon street. Mr. and Mrs. Atkinson are both thoroughly conversant with the details of the story, and it is substantially from the statement of the former that the above facts are given.

SENATOR HILL'S CASE.

The Horrible Affliction of Cancer in the Mouth and the Patient Suffering with which it been Borne.

Our dispatches announce the death of Senator Hill of Georgia. The disease, which was a terrible one, is explained by the following dispatch from Atlanta, published a few days ago by the Chicago Times:

A dispatch from Atlanta, Ga., says: In modern annals there has not been a death so full of horrors as that which Georgia's great orator and statesman, Benjamin Harvey Hill, is now suffering. Nor has the resignation and Christian philosophy exhibited been excelled. Slowly dying of one of the most loathsome of diseases, he is yet cheerful, patient and resigned. Talking to-day with his physician and son-in-law, Dr. Ridley, I learned the details of the case, as now presented. The patient is put to sleep every night about 8 o'clock with a hypodermic injection of morphine and does not awake until 11 o'clock the following morning. He then is assisted to dress and sits during the day in an easy chair placed near the window of a pavilion attached to the north side of his residence, with a window and door opening to the east on to a veranda. There he sits the whole day, the subject of the most assiduous attentions from the devoted family. He reads a little, newspapers, his mail, and some devotional works; also writes down his passing impressions, indites letters and communicates with those to whom his almost inarticulate murmurings are unintelligible.

Three grains of morphine are administered daily, the patient never being allowed to come thoroughly from under the influence. His food consists of milk into which the yolks of three eggs have been beaten and a little whisky added. About three quarts of this mixture is passed into the patient's stomach every day through a tube, no portion of the fluid touching his palate. The cancer, for such it is acknowledged to be by all but those who have not had any connection with the case, has destroyed all the tissues of his throat and mouth on the left side as well as the lower jaw or sub-auxiliary bone. The opening is so large that two or three fingers pass freely up into the mouth from below, and the palate can be seen when the patient is lying down and one approaches him from the feet. The outer carotid artery is exposed, and pulsation is plainly seen. The soft or connective tissue has been eaten away, and only such tough, elastic substances as compose the walls of the artery are left intact. What is left of the tongue is attached to the right side by a very slender ligament, and the constant fear is felt that it shall become detached and fall into the patient's throat when asleep, and thus end his sufferings, while sufficient strength might exist for a further continuance of the contest with the dread destroyer. His mouth is kept filled with absorbent and antiseptic cotton, which is frequently changed, as is the dressing on the outside. No internal remedy is now given, nor has any been administered since the abandonment of the French cancer cure, which consisted in the injection into the blood of purified carbolic acid, the object being to destroy the cancerous germs in the blood.

For three years Mr. Hill suffered with an ulcerous sore on his tongue before he told even his wife. Then, by advice of his friends, he consulted Dr. Bayard, an uncle of the Delaware senator, who practices homeopathy in New York. For eight months this physician treated him, and reported constant improvement. But the patient was growing worse, and he finally realized that he was in danger and placed himself in the hands of Dr. Gross and the Philadelphia hospital staff.

The evidences of the sufferer's entire resignation are numerous. The other day he called his son Charles to him: "I am soon going to a better land, Charles; don't you wish you could come along, too? These are the happiest days of my life." Such is the tenor of all his utterances to his family and friends. In writing to an old servant, now in Athens, Ga., the other day, he reiterated the remark that this was the happiest period of his existence. He might have been guilty of errors in his worldly intercourse, but now felt fully prepared to meet his maker. The Lord had given him a good long notice, and he was fully prepared for the summons when it came. The final change, it is now thought, will come from sheer exhaustion. If the morphine was suspended he would soon sink from the effects of pain. Now all that can be done is to alleviate the suffering and prolong the few days which, in spite of his terrible condition, he seems to prize more than those upon which he gained his glory.

[illegible] Purest and Best Medicine ever Made.

A combination of Hops, Buchu, Mandrake and Dandelion, with all the best and most curative properties of all other Bitters, makes the greatest Blood Purifier, Liver Regulator, and Life and Health Restoring Agent on earth.

No disease can possibly long exist where Hop Bitters are used, so varied and perfect are their operations.

They give new life and vigor to the aged and infirm.

To all whose employments cause irregularity of the bowels or urinary organs, or who require an Appetizer, Tonic and mild Stimulant, Hop Bitters are invaluable, without intoxicating.

No matter what your feelings or symptoms are what the disease or ailment is use Hop Bitters. Don't wait until you are sick but if you only feel bad or miserable, use them at once. It may save your life. It has saved hundreds.

$500 will be paid for a case they will not cure or help. Do not suffer or let your friends suffer, but use and urge them to use Hop B.

Remember, Hop Bitters is no vile, drugged drunken nostrum, but the Purest and Best Medicine ever made; the "INVALIDS FRIEND and HOPE" and no person or family should be without them.

D.I.C. is an absolute and irresistible cure for Drunkenness, use of opium, tobacco and narcotics. All sold by druggists. Send for Circular. Hop Bitters Mfg. Co., Rochester, N.Y. and Toronto, Ont.

OUR

Commences To-Day.

We have made substantial reductions in [illegible] of our Clothing, and to convince the most skeptical that we HAVE DONE SO, we invite them to inspect our stock and see for themselves. [illegible] we have marked our selling prices, which will show a reduction ranging from $2 50 to $5 per suit in both Men's and Boys' Clothing. This reduction applies to our entire stock of Clothing. A heavy Fall Stock, to arrive in the course of a few weeks, and lack of room for it, is our reason for reducing prices—thus enabling purchasers to procure reliable merchandise below the market price.

JULY 17, 1882—10:22 A. M.

Michalitschke Brothers & Co. advertise in the Oregonian that for reasons best known to themselves they have discontinued our agency, and offer their San Francisco Chinese-made Cigars in competition.

In response to same we beg to inform the public that, for good and sufficient reasons, WE CANCELED THEIR ORDERS standing on our books on the 8th day of May last, and REFUSED TO SELL THEM any further, or have anything further to do with them, their application to us notwithstanding. This is where the shoe pinches; hence their animosity.
